

PERU

Quality of Care

The best medical care in Peru is provided in select private hospitals located in Peru's major cities, particularly Lima. These facilities offer acceptable care covering a wide range of specialties, with many doctors trained in Europe and the U.S. Public hospitals provide a much lower standard of care and are not recommended.

Outside of Lima and Arequipa, the standard of medical care is much lower, and evacuation to Lima, Santiago (Chile), Bogota (Colombia) or the U.S. may be required for serious medical emergencies.

Travelers should note that Cusco, the prime tourist destination, has several private facilities that are appropriate for routine medical care but lack adequate health care equipment to handle serious medical conditions. Although some private hospital facilities in Cuzco are able to acceptably treat acute medical problems related to altitude sickness, other serious medical emergencies often require evacuation to Lima.

The quality of medical care in the rainforest tourist destination of Iquitos is well below international standards. There is only one private facility that can offer routine care and emergency stabilization. Public hospitals and health centers lack most medical equipment.

Emergency Services

Emergency Numbers to be dialed locally:

Ambulance & Medical emergency services: 117
Fire: 116
Police: 105

Most private hospitals in Lima provide ambulance services that may be accessed by calling the hospital directly. The public ambulance system is unreliable and is not recommended. In smaller cities ambulances may not be available at all. In these areas, travelers should consider arranging private transport or taking a taxi to the hospital.

In the case of an emergency go IMMEDIATELY to the nearest physician or hospital without delay, and then notify UnitedHealthcare Global Assistance as soon as possible of your situation. UnitedHealthcare Global Assistance will immediately take appropriate action to assist you and monitor your care until the situation is resolved.
